

FAIR DIRECTORS ELECTED TUESDAY

The stockholders of the Southeast Missouri District Fair had their annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday evening. The Secretary had his report ready and submitted to them the financial condition of the Association was in at the present time.

C. E. Dover, cashier of the Citizens Bank was authorized to dispose of certain notes held in order to secure sufficient money to pay all claims against the Association.

The following gentlemen were elected to the directorate for the ensuing year: Ranney Applegate, W. H. Sikes, Jos. L. Matthews, T. A. Wilson, Lee Bowman, Jake Sitze, L. M. Stallcup, Leonard McMullin, and S. P. Hunter of La Forge. From these directors the officers will be selected and announced at a later date.

It was decided to proceed with the arrangements for a fair in September of this year and the public is invited to lend their support in the way of exhibits of farm products, household and kitchen fixings, live stock, and anything else that might go towards making the greatest fair we have ever had.

It is true that the Association owes some of its premiums and the men to whom it is due know just what conditions caused the delay in payments and should wait with patience the arrival of the check, for it will surely come.

In the meantime hold nothing in the way of personal ill will against any of the officers as they have done everything in their power to raise the money to clear the books, but scarcity of money at the banks have made it an uphill task.

This is a Southeast Missouri Fair, and the greatest county fair in the State, so it should be the pride of every individual to do his or her best to make it a big financial success.

ILLINOIS TO BUILD STATE CEMENT PLANT

Springfield, Ill., January 24.—Following the agreement reached in Chicago Saturday by the highway executives of 8 Midwestern States not to buy any more cement for hard roads from the "trust" until prices are reduced to a fair, economic level, Director C. R. Miller of the Illinois Department of Public Works today commenced the execution of plans already perfected for the building of a state cement plant.

Col. Miller said today: "We have just commenced to fight. We are going to build roads in Illinois, but we are not going to pay exorbitant prices to the cement trust. Gov. Small is just as determined as ever to build 1000 miles of road this year, but he is not going to permit the cement trust to rob the farmers of Illinois with wartime prices when the price of their product is continually dropping, any more than he would last year when the trust cried, 'Build at once regardless of cost.'"

"The work may be delayed some, but it will go ahead. I have had expert engineers at work for some time on plans for a state plant. We are in earnest in this matter. We have $5,000,000 for construction of road material plants and we are going to build. Then in the future we will never be at the mercy of the trust."

Illinois took the lead in the agreement which was reached in Chicago Saturday.

Wisconsin was offered cement by Illinois plants at 7½ cents per barrel less than these same plants would furnish cement to Illinois. But Wisconsin also rejected all bids.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the M. E. Church held an all day meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Louie Hinkle, on Prosperity St.

According to an estimate by the home economic department of the University of Wisconsin, a good wardrobe for a girl student can be purchased for $324.30.

The following from Commerce were here Saturday to attend the funeral of Reese Applegate: Mrs. Tillman Anderson, Miss Virginia Anderson, Mrs. Clara Anderson, Mrs. J. P. Ranney and Mrs. Geo. Campbell.

Lichens are eaten in various parts of the world. In times of famine a species of lichen in Northern Asia serves as food for the Tartar tribes. Due to the fact that Chinese swallows makes their nests of lichen, the Chinese eat the nests, which have great nutritive value.

MINUTES OF MEETING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

One of the most entertaining sessions the Chamber of Commerce has ever held was that of Monday evening, at which time Mr. Roy Woodburn, proprietor of a string of creameries, but living at Poplar Bluff, was here in response to an invitation to place before interested parties the dairying situation as he sees it and has experienced it.

A splendid lot of business men and farmers were present when President Matthews introduced Mr. Woodburn, who hastened to say that he was not a speaker, but when he finished his part of the program, it was known by everyone present that he was a talker who knew what he was talking about and one who was interested in his subject. He had just enough of the Southern drawl to make his talk pleasing to the ear and so much of real facts and experiences to make it pleasing to the mind.

He told those present not to expect too much to start off with, if they did, they would probably be discouraged and quit, but advised them to take the cows they now had, give them better attention in the way of housing and feed, to feed and milk them regular and the animals would respond to this treatment and give them more milk. "Breed for quality and feed for quantity" was his advice, and to use bulls from a milk record strain to cross on to the cows they now own and the first cross would show the increase in milk.

Notes were taken of the talk by Mr. Woodburn which will be given in paragraph as they were spoken:

The Cape Girardeau County Dairy Herd owns the third Guernsey bull in the United States for producing cows with butter fat records.

Butter fat delivered to the receiving station at this time will net from 17c to 18c per pound, leaving the skim milk for calves, pigs and poultry.

To produce milk economically pasture is a necessity, next to pasture comes ensilage. The cow consumes great quantities of roughage such as fodder, hay or ensilage. Alfalfa is the greatest of hays to produce butter fat, followed by pea hay, soy bean and clover. Timothy if fed to milk cows would dry them up.

For the cow to give a good flow of milk in bad weather it is absolutely necessary that she be given a warm and a dry house.

To properly test milk mix the morning and evening milking in a can, stir thoroughly, then dip from as near the center as possible.

Everyone selling butter fat should own a cream separator of some sort, as a good separator will soon pay for itself in gain of butter fat besides saving time.

The small dairyman loses on delivering milk at 40c per gallon if he counts his time in delivering anything. The cost of broken bottles, bad collections, etc., are done away with selling the butter fat.

Skim milk is worth 82c per cwt. as feed for pigs in comparison to corn at 60c per bushel, in addition the manure is rated at $20 per cow as a fertilizer on the farm.

Man can live longer and keep his efficiency longer on milk than on any other article of diet known. The Holstein cow has more sugar in her skim milk than any other cow. Less cream rises to top on Holstein milk than any other dairy breed because of the small butter fat globules but is held in body of the milk and is extracted by a separator. Jersey and Guernsey milk can be easily skimmed with spoon or ladle because the fat globules are large and rise to the top.

The price paid for butter fat is regulated from Chicago and Woodburn receives a telegram each day setting the price. He pays within 1c of Chicago. Woodburn furnishes cans to ship from local station to creamery at Poplar Bluff. Will sell at cost to dairyman who wish cans.

Tuesday morning Mr. Woodburn made arrangements with Earl Riga to act as agent at this point and the first shipment will be made Saturday of this week. The back room of the Pinnell Store Co. will be the station and for every pound of butter fat delivered there the cash will be paid. This will eventually prove a big paying proposition for our farmers and The Standard is in hopes that they will give this project a thorough trial as small money in a continuous stream will soon grow.

Work called for and returned the same day. Call 127.

Straight talk on Cream Separators by Sikeston Hdwe. Co.

Sikeston, Mo.

BEFORE buying a separator, there are certain things that you ought to know about it.

The De Laval skims clean, delivers cream of uniform thickness, runs easily and requires little or no attention.

It is simple, so that it will not easily get out of order, and it is easy to clean and lasts for a lifetime.

Over 2,500,000 De Laval users will confirm these statements about it. We'll be glad to give you the names of a number of De Laval users right around this town. Some of them formerly used separators of other makes.

You can then ask them why they changed, and what they think of the De Laval.

If you want to profit by other people's experience ask us for a list of De Laval users

Sooner or later you will buy a
DE LAVAL

To every reliable farmer in the Sikeston District who will encourage the efforts of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce in establishing a Cream Station here, by agreeing to deliver cream at least once a week for six months, we will furnish a DeLaval at a special price and easy terms. If you are not satisfied with your profits at the end of the six months we will take the machine off your hands.

FARM COMMITTEE ASKS FOR FAVORS

Washington, Jan. 25.—Recommendation for repeal of the commonly known guaranty clause of the transportation act and return to the State Railroad Commissions of control over State rates, was voted today by a subcommittee on railway transportation of the general transportation committee of the National Agricultural Conference. The vote on the repeal of the guaranty clause was 12 to 5 and the return of the State railway powers 11 to 6.

Recommendation for the construction of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway project was voted by the subcommittee on waterways transportation under the general transportation committee.

Participation in the economic rehabilitation of Europe, extension of credit to foreign buyers through the Federal Reserve System and perfection of the co-operative marketing idea were among the remedies for the existing agricultural depression recommended by speakers before the conference. The speakers were unanimous in the opinion that sound marketing policy was of equal importance as one governing production.

Gov. Parker of Louisiana aroused enthusiasm when he called upon "patriotic Democrats of the South to stand shoulder to shoulder with patriotic Republicans of the North" in the effort to solve the problems before the conference.

J. M. Anderson of the St. Paul (Minn.) Equity Co-operative Exchange asserted that only through co-operation with Europe in her efforts to recover could American economic difficulties be settled.

Gov. Parker proposed as a means of combating the present farm depression the opening of export markets through extension of long-time credits to foreign buyers through the Federal reserve system.

"Have the Federal reserve banks", the Louisiana Governor suggested, "send their own representatives to the capitals of those European nations desiring to purchase our products and unable to pay for them. Look up the standing and character of these purchasers as well as their financial responsibility. Sell them not on very short time, but on six, 12 and 18 months, taking their acceptances, with the indorsements of the local bank and the co-operation of the great banking institutions of each nation."

"Authorize the spinners, manufacturers and dealers to sell their products on equally long time, all drafts, acceptances and notes in payment to be deposited in trust until the claim of the Federal Reserve Bank shall have been paid."

Gov. Parker told the conference that this plan "would afford almost instant relief, would mean the employment of many American ships for carrying these goods, would add to the value of the merchant marine, would put energy and spirit into business, and bring to this country the good will of all of the older nations."

Gov. Parker departed from his prepared address to take notice of rumors which he said had been heard in some quarters that "this is a hand-picked, cut-and-dried performance." He added the hope that there was no foundation whatever in the rumors.

Gov. Parker declared that he believed the delegates had come to solve intelligently and patriotically the problems now confronting agriculture.

Delegates expressed keen interest in the subject of commodity financing. The committee on agricultural credits and insurance is expected to make recommendations for providing farmers with working capital on terms of equality, with financial and available to other industries. Some form of crop insurance also is expected.

A member of the Committee on Agricultural Credit and Insurance

suggested that a plan of financing probably could be worked out to provide for commodity loans running from six months to three years. His proposition would provide for the warehousing, grading and inspection of commodities, indorsement of commodity paper presented by farmers by their local banks and the handling of this paper through the Federal Farm Loan Bank system.

Support of Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals was announced today by the group of editors of agricultural papers attending the conference. A committee consisting of Carl Williams, Oklahoma City, chairman; J. C. Cunningham, Ohio; Herbert Myrick, Massachusetts; Samuel Adams, Illinois; and Clarence Poe, North Carolina, was named to call on Secretary Weeks in regard to the matter.

BUS OWNER ACCUSED OF CHECK FRAUDS

An information for uttering worthless checks was issued today against Carl L. Bess, 28 years old, who operated an auto bus line between St. Louis and Fredericktown, Mo., and who was arrested yesterday at San Antonio, Texas. He is reported to have waived extradition and a detective has been sent for him.

Bess had his local stand at the Marquette Hotel. He had five automobiles, purchased at the Weber Implement Co., 1837 Locust Street, on each of which was a mortgage of $900. He disappeared from St. Louis January 10 and the Weber Company has since been seeking to recover the automobiles. After Bess left, the Weber company reported it had cashed one check for $50 and another for $200 for Bess that were returned by the Bank on which they were drawn, and the Marquette Hotel reported it had cashed checks totaling $425 that were returned by banks.

Two of the Weber automobiles were recovered here recently, and the San Antonio police report two automobiles found in Bess' possession, leaving one car unaccounted for.

Bess was married and lived in an apartment at 3664 Washington boulevard. He also occupied a room at the Marquette Hotel. He was found at San Antonio through a telegram sent his wife by a chauffeur who was employed by Bess in this city, and the chauffeur against whom there is no charge, is being held with Bess.—Post-Dispatch.

HYDE TO ASK DISPOSAL OF $50,000 WAR FUND

Jefferson City, Mo., January 24.—Gov. Hyde departed today for Washington. His chief mission to the national capital, he said, will be to find some way of getting rid of the custody of about $50,000 left from an appropriation made by Congress some eleven years ago to pay Missouri soldiers who served in the Spanish-American War for services at Jefferson Barracks before they were taken into the regular army.

The money voted by Congress first fell into the hands of Gov. Hadley and he disbursed the great bulk of it. A good many of those entitled to participate in the fund could not be found. The balance was placed in a Kansas City bank and the interest utilized for increasing the salary of the Governor's private secretary and other clerical help in the executive office. The same system prevails today.

Gov. Hyde says that he wants the fund disposed of in some satisfactory manner. The State Legislature has no control over it. In Gov. Hyde's opinion, it would be well if Congress should authorize the expenditure of what remains of the fund for a soldier's memorial. This, he said, is only a suggestion.

"I have tried my best to pay off all of these old claims," said the Governor, "and have, in fact, paid out about $3000. I am now satisfied that many of the claims will never be paid. The amount of each unpaid claim is small and the men to whom the money is due scattered long ago and some are no doubt numbered with the dead."

LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE MEETING

The Law Enforcement League held its regular meeting at the City Hall Tuesday evening. John O'Hara was unanimously chosen as president. L. D. Baker was selected to notify Mr. O'Hara of the honor conferred. Mr. Baker reported that Mr. O'Hara would accept and give his best efforts toward the work.

Mrs. Maude Stubbs reported that 678 signatures had been secured to support the League with Ward 2 yet to hear from.

The Sheriff of New Madrid County sent word to the League that he would be in Sikeston after the adjournment of circuit court and would confer with officers of the League as to how best to keep New Madrid bootleggers from selling their goods to Sikeston customers. The Sheriff says he will work with the League to stop the traffic.

Jackson, Mo., wishes to know of the Sikeston organization and how it is progressing. The Secretary was authorized to write the Jackson citizens.

Mayor White confessed that local officers seemed to be more active since the League had been organized and that they came very near bagging a bootlegger with his wares, but the b. i. beat them over the New Madrid line.

The Standard learned that a new home brew was being made that contained "plenty of hop but no kick." Whether it will prove popular or not remains to be seen.

A special meeting is called for Tuesday evening, January 31, at the City Hall, at which time committees will be appointed and the League will put on her work clothes, lay the brass band on the shelf and quietly lay plans to jail both the seller and the buyer of illegal liquor. Quite considerable embarrassment is likely to occur in some households if their program goes through.

SENTENCE FOR MURDER FOUND TO BE INNOCENT

Jefferson City, Mo., January 24.—Gov. Hyde today paroled Phillip De Paul, who was convicted in Jefferson County in 1914 of murder and sentenced to the Penitentiary for life. The murder was committed for the purpose of robbery.

The parole is based upon the present belief among a number of officials that the wrong man was convicted. Assistant Attorney General Albert Miller conducted the prosecution at that time, when he was Prosecuting Attorney of Jefferson County. Three other Jefferson County lawyers who were interested in the prosecution are satisfied that a mistake was made, and Judge E. M. Dearing, before whom the case was tried, has reached the same conclusion. All are now of the opinion that justice miscarried.

De Paul and a number of other Italians were employed by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at Crystal City. The murdered man, whose name is not given in the papers submitted to the Governor, was a companion of De Paul. He was known to carry all of his money, a considerable sum, with him. He was found with a bullet through his brain and he had been robbed.

The attorneys and officials say that the Italian who testified that he had seen De Paul and the murdered man together near the scene of the crime and a short time before it occurred, left the country and returned to Italy following De Paul's conviction.

The Mayor of Ceraso, Italy, sent a testimonial as to the good name of the family there.

De Paul is paroled to Dr. F. Emory Lyon of Chicago.

It will be a mighty hard matter for any Republican paper or Republican politician to convince R. L. Calvin that taxes have not been raised. Last year, or 1920, his taxes on his farm lands amounted to $650. His taxes for 1921 were $1,437.50. He raised 3500 bushels of corn that he sold to pay his taxes with, but it lacked $25.18 of doing it. Mr. Calvin said if it had not been for his hogs that he could not possibly gotten by, as it was he lost money the same as other farmers.

Judge Ewing Cockrell, son of the late Senator F. M. Cockrell, is spoken of for the United States Senate to succeed Jas. A. Reed. The Standard would like to see this splendid son of his father in the United States Senate, but not this time. Breckinridge Long is entitled to the honor of succeeding Reed, and if Judge Cockrell will sit quietly on the bench until 1926 and go after Senator Spencer's toga, if alive, we'll be for him. Now, the duty of Democrats should be not to kick up a contest for the nomination of any man for any office, but to conserve their energy for the common political enemy at the November election.

Hogs on the St. Louis market Tuesday reached $9.75, which is the highest price in a year. The reason of this price is the scarcity of hogs throughout the corn belt. Other sections are shorter. The farmer should make every effort to attend the sales of brood sows and gilts that is to be held in this section within the next few weeks and purchase just as many as he can raise the money to pay for. C. L. Blanton & Sons Poland China sale at McCord barn in Sikeston comes the 21st of February, followed by the Harper & Wallace Poland China sale at Bertrand, February 22. On the 28th of February, Sikes & Renner will offer 50 head of Durocs to the public. It will take little money to purchase a sow or gilt and her farrow will twice over pay the bill in six months. Make your arrangements to attend all these sales.

The Law and Order League of Sikeston is in favor of enforcement of all laws on the statute books, but after attending their meetings, the only law that they are making a real fight on is the enforcement of the prohibition law. This is a good fight all right and their efforts are going to meet with success, for public opinion, when aroused, must and will be obeyed. At the same time there are other laws that should be agitated that would affect the pocketbook of every tax payer in Sikeston, and that is: to see that the ordinance forbidding automobiles to be parked close to water plugs is enforced. One reason for high insurance rates of Sikeston is because a State auditor found the plugs in the main part of town hid by cars being parked so that in case of fire, the truck could not get to the plug. The Law Enforcement League should cause the arrest of these violators and the fast driving auto violators just the same as if he was a bootlegger or moonshiner.

President Harding is Responsible.

As the Appeal views it, there were two things in connection with the Newberry matter more scandalous than the purchase of a seat in the American Senate. One was the part President Harding played in influencing weak-kneed party men to vote for Newberry last Thursday. The other was the conduct of Selden P. Spencer, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate Newberry's campaign. Spencer at once became a self-constituted attorney for the defense. By methods that would have been repulsive to a professional shyster in a city police court, he ruled out testimony that was unfavorable to his client and otherwise shielded him from a complete revelation of the facts. But neither Spencer nor Newberry himself could suppress all the truth. Both of them were forced to confess that two hundred thousand dollars had been spent in the purchase of the Michigan man's toga. The actual sum, it is thought, was nearer a million. They excused it on the ground that Newberry was ignorant about the wholesale bribery that had been perpetrated. The weakness of their case was further emphasized by the decision to keep Newberry off the witness stand. It evidently was prompted by fear of what would be brought out. The final verdict of the Senate, as viewed by the country, was that purchase of a seat was no violation of the law so long as the beneficiary, as in this case, professed ignorance of the transaction. Newberry, it will be recalled, was indicted by the Federal authorities, convicted by a jury composed entirely of Republicans and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He was saved on a supreme court technicality to the effect that the law he was charged with violating was unconstitutional. All that saved him from expulsion from the Senate last Thursday was a resolution, part of it written by the President of the United States, which, while safe-guarding him in his crooked election, vigorously condemned the use of much money in a senatorial campaign. One of the worst things in connection with this matter is that future buying of seats is confirmed if the beneficiary pleads ignorance to wholesale bribery special friends or interests perpetrate in his behalf. The very worst feature is that Newberry's crooked vote gave his party a majority of one in the Senate two years ago, enabling it to gain control of all the committees and change the nation's course from Christian deals to a selfish isolation and an Ishmaelish opposition to former companions in arms.—Paris Appeal.

Unfair Use of State Publication.

Hon. F. M. Norman, former representative has written Jewell Mayes, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, taking him to task for using the State Marketing Bulletin printed and circulated at the expense of the state to convey pernicious political propaganda in an article regarding taxation and seeking to justify the State Board of Equalization in its unjust and unfair valuation of the farm lands of the state.

Here is Mr. Norman's letter: "I have just read your article on the front page of December Marketing Bulletin, headed 'In regard to taxes.' A few more articles like this one and all the farmers in this part of the state will form the opinion that you are running a real Republican newspaper. Before you can make the average farmer swallow this dope you will have to cite him to proof. He is not quite as thick skulled as the average politician. Any common farmer that reads his tax receipt can see that state taxes are increased at least 50 per cent in this part of the state. You will have to change the figures on our tax receipts before you can convince us otherwise.

"I see your article was given out by the Secretary of the Tax Commission. If this is the same politician that was appointed by the Governor some time ago over the protest of the American Legion because he was fined in open court for disloyal utterances during the war, I think the average Missouri farmer, who had to bear the brunt of the war, would hesitate to take the figures put out by such a secretary. Farmers who had boys in the war hesitate to believe figures that are put out by this kind of a man.

"I note the appropriations in 1919-20 for all state purposes were a little more than $18,000,000. These are the two years when the cost of living reached the highest point. Now when labor is cheap and corn 30c a bushel, and all supplies have tumbled nearly 100 per cent, I see the appropriations, by this administration, for the first two years is between thirty-six and forty million dollars. Will you tell us in your next Bulletin how this money is going to be raised with less taxes than we had in 1919-20?" F. M. NORMAN.

Mr. Antwine's Opinion

"It is very interesting to observe the relief movement for farmers", Mr. Antwine said. "Farmers themselves are not busy at this season, and they have time to observe the efforts to save them.

"So we are all looking. We are all hopeful. It is quite true that unless farmers can make a profit none of the rest of us can do so.

"Still our sense of humor is not impaired by the seriousness of the situation. I have been reading what Mr. Harding had to say of co-operation among farmers. He thinks this is of very great importance, and so do many other people. Indeed, some people say that only co-operation can rescue farming from its present plight.

"It is to laugh. We had a wonderful co-operative movement among farmers in North Dakota. They went so far as to do their own banking, carry their own insurance and build their own elevators. Did the country encourage that co-operation among the farmers of North Dakota?

"Certainly not. The country placed in its way every obstacle it could devise. Powerful financial interests opposed its credit. The bonds of North Dakota had to be sold pretty much over the heads of brokers, who feared the wrath of their patrons.

"Does Mr. Harding think this was wrong? Does he think the farmers of North Dakota were on the right track and that it was a mistake to have fought their program of co-operation?

"He did not say so. He only left us to infer that it was an economic faux pas, without going so far as to come out and say it, which would, of course, bring down upon him more of a storm than he might be able to weather.

"I think co-operation will help the farmers, but I do not think we are going to let them co-operate very far without giving them a good stiff fight all along the line. Since our own farmers have fallen upon evil days we have been learning of co-operation among farmers in other countries. It has solved the problem of how to make farming pay in Denmark, and in Russia its value is so proved that the soviets have had to revive it after stamping it out.

"Farmers can co-operate, and there is probably no other way in which they can be helped. Can Mr. Harding assure farmers of protection from predatory interests if they do co-operate?

"I am afraid not. He must share that fear, since he said nothing about it", Mr. Antwine concluded.—Clark McAdams in Post-Dispatch.

Here is a strange thing about the human memory: It can picture to the minds scenes of long ago—the old swimming hole, the big yard and family home the old bay mare, the faithful shepherd dog, the black stick from which father made those horrible pills or other things with which its owner associated in the long ago. When it comes to people, however, its powers fail. No man can recall his father as appearing other than when he last saw him, nor can he throw memory's screen a likeness of the boy with whom he used to chum. Millions of husbands lie about carrying always in their hearts the image of the wife as she was when her red cheeks, dancing eyes and youthful figure first awakened his emotions. It goes good with Friend Wife because she has never experimented to see if such a thing were possible. On the street every day we meet men and women we knew forty years ago, some of them classmates in school from primary department to senior class, but, try as we will, it is impossible to visualize them as they used to be, though it is no trick at all to reproduce in memory the old school building, the playgrounds, the big hickory tree, the sycamores, the oaks and even the red haw saplings about the place. When we were twelve years old our father was only forty, a dozen years younger than we now are, yet we cannot recall that he ever looked different from what he does today, nor can we remember anyone else except as they now appear. Can you?—Paris Appeal.

KEY STOLEN FROM PANTS IN HOME USED TO ROB SHOP

Cape Girardeau, Mo., January 23.—Robbers Sunday night broke into the home of I. R. Ireland at Commerce, twenty miles south of here, while the family slept, looted the house and stole from Ireland's trouser pocket the keys to his general store. Thus equipped they proceeded to the store and robbed it, securing $3000 in merchandise and cash.

Mrs. Ireland lost $1000 in diamonds. A negro has been arrested on suspicion.

Send in by parcel post your cleaning and pressing to Pitman, the tailor, at Sikeston.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHIEF OF POLICE

We are authorized to announce Charles Clark as a candidate for Chief of Police of Sikeston, subject to the will of the voters at the April election.

Mrs. J. N. Ross, who has been visiting in Little Rock, Ark., returned this week.

Mrs. Geo. W. Arterburn has returned from Cairo, where she underwent an operation. Mrs. Arterburn is improving rapidly.

Sikeston citizens are much pleased with the new fire fighting apparatus and with Dick Swanner, the fireman. Prompt response and the reliable equipment undoubtedly saved the beautiful home of L. M. Stallcup.

The first genuine winter of the season has been with us during the week. The thermometer has registered as low as 8 degrees above zero. Thursday was a white day, snow falling for several hours, which, we hope, will be beneficial to the wheat.

The columns of The Standard are open to all candidates of all political parties at so much per. In the local field it will take $5 in cash to be announced for Mayor, Police Chief and City Collector. For Aldermen, $2.50. All political readers, 10c per line.

To break a cold take 666.

March 15th is FREE COW DAY at the Farmers Supply.

A. Ray Smith Smith is in St. Louis buying new goods for the Farmers Dry Goods & Clo. Company.

Jess Kimes, of Buckner-Ragsdale Store Co., has been confined to his home this week on account of illness.

Mrs. George Van Lear, mother of Mrs. Emory Matthews, continues to improve and they are hoping to bring her home from the hospital next week.

The Sikeston boys' basketball team will play the Portageville boys at Portageville on Friday, January 27. The Sikeston girls will play the Cape Girardeau girls at Sikeston, Friday, January 27.

Why buy coal when you can get wood just for the cutting. Save your money. I will furnish team or wagon to put you out at Tanner Switch or return free. The draymen of the town will haul the wood you cut cheap. Call me up.—J. H. Galeener.

The U. D. C. meeting that was to be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Sikes last Saturday was postponed on account of the funeral of Reese Applegate, will be held this Saturday at 3:00 o'clock at Mrs. Sikes', with Mrs. Sikes and her mother, Mrs. J. N. Ross, as hostesses.

SIKESTON DISTRICT SHOULD FOLLOW

Last week I had an opportunity of driving through one of the prosperous counties of Illinois. In passing many farm houses I found many of the farmers making hot beds. Some were making the manure beds and others were fixing up their hot beds that were to be heated with wood. The beds were generally twelve to fifty feet long and four feet wide with a six inch board on one side and a twelve inch board on the other so that the side of a strip of canvass could be tacked to the edge of the twelve inch board and the other side of the canvass to a thin strip of wood, thereby allowing the canvass to lay over the entire bed during to cold weather, only to be laid back when the sun was warming up. Some of these beds were manure beds filled with manure from the stables and soil placed on top of the manure and others were fire beds, made by digging a trench from one to two feet wide and about fifteen inches deep for a distance of thirty to fifty feet long with old tin laying over the trench and the frame for soil and canvass made over the trench. Then a small furnace would be built at the lower end so that fire could be made and the heat pass up through the trench under the bed, thereby heating up the bed.

Now they are planting lettuce, radishes and many other early garden seeds in these beds and will soon have an abundance of lettuce and radishes for home use and for sale. Why would it not be a good thing for every farmer in the Sikeston district to build a hot bed. He could plant his tomato or cabbage seeds soon as the lettuce or radish crop was over and have large plants to put out early. This will cut the spring grocery bills in half. Why not spend a little time and put a manure hot bed or a fire hot bed on every farm?—J. H. Galeener.

SCOTT COUNTY MEMBERS AT THE STATE CAPITOL

The blue book has the following to say as to Senator Anderson and Representative Malone of Scott County: Tillman W. Anderson (Democrat), Senator from the Twenty-third district, was born Jan. 4, 1883, at Commerce, Mo., where he now resides, being engaged as a farmer and stockman. He was educated in the Commerce public school. He was married April 21, 1914, to Miss Jessie G. Anderson, at Memphis, Tenn. Served as a representative from Scott County in the 50th General Assembly. In the 51st General Assembly he was a member of the Committees on Appropriations; Roads and Highways; Fish and Game; Agriculture; University, Normal Schools, Agricultural College and School of Mines; Township Organization, County Boundaries, Swamp Lands and Ditches and Drains; Centennial Celebration Committee.

E. J. Malone (Republican), Representative from Scott County, and the only Republican ever elected to the Legislature from that county. Was born December 29, 1852, in Marshall County, Tenn. Was educated in the rural schools of that county and at Giles College, Pulaski, Tenn. When a young man, he became a medical student and practiced in his native state, and later, in 1873, moved to the state of Illinois, where he continued to practice and also accepted a position as bookkeeper and accountant for Kirby, Ulen & Company of Pulaski, Ill., who were extensive manufacturers of hard and soft wood lumber, and later he purchased an interest in the business, and in 1875 he married Miss Nora Kirby, a daughter of the senior member of the firm (Mrs. Malone died on the 25th of July, 1889). In 1877 he moved to Missouri and located at what, at that time, was known as Little River, New Madrid county, on the Cairo and Poplar Bluff division of the Iron Mountain Railroad. Forming a partnership with his father-in-law, under the firm name of Kirby & Malone, he erected one of the largest saw milling plants in the state, which is now known as the Himmelberger-Harrison Lumber Co., Morehouse, Mo., they having purchased the same in the 1889. In 1890 he was married to Miss Mamie Ethel Bridges of Carbondale, Ill. During the World War he was Scott County's representative for the war department on claims for allotment and pensions, and enjoyed the distinction of having three sons in the World War, all officers in the same company. Was for many years a member of the board of education, served five or six terms as mayor of his city, resigning in 1919. Is owner of considerable city property and at one time was considered among the largest owners of real estate in that section. Sikeston, Mo., his home city, is reputed the wealthiest town, per capita, in the United States. In the 51st General Assembly he was chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Scientific Institutions and a member of the Committees on Swamp Lands; Public Libraries; Justice of the Peace, and Military Affairs.

Commerce

C. M. Wylie has returned from a business trip to St. Louis.

Mr. Utuaga, a student at the Cape Girardeau Business College, has been interviewing Commerce High School students in regard to a business course.

Frank Mabry, who is working in a St. Louis Piggly Wiggly, has come home on a visit.

Malcolm Post has returned from a business trip to Minnesota.

Mrs. Ben Gaither, after spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Clardy, is back in Commerce. Her little daughter, Mary Elizabeth, stayed in St. Louis to attend school.

Paul Murcheson, a Sikeston High School student, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. C. M. Wylie.

Miss Mason shopped in Cape Girardeau this week.

Mrs. Emma Ranney, Mrs. Clara Anderson, Miss Virginia Anderson, Mrs. Tillman Anderson and Mrs. George Campbell were in Sikeston Friday and Saturday.

Fire broke out Monday night, Mrs. Columbia Gaither's hen house being burned before the engine could get in action. The fire spread from a pan of ashes emptied at noon Monday. The fire was discovered about midnight.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Ireland have been the victims of several burglaries in recent years, the latest taking place Saturday night. Both their home and store were robbed to the extent of several thousand dollars in cash, merchandise and Mrs. Ireland's diamonds. A bloodhound brought over from Jonesboro, Ill., Sunday failed to find a definite trail. The dog has a record of having "found" seven times out of nine in the month of December.

There are extra specials in every department for the wise and thoughtful purchaser. We have a large amount of stock on our shelves and are offering the very choicest goods at honest-to-goodness bargain prices. Don't let this opportunity slip by to get well known, dependable merchandise. Merchandise of such quality at such prices compel satisfaction.

Dependable Merchandise

Have you a farm for rent or for sale on a small down payment to a good farmer?

We have a constant stream of inquiries from good farmers who do not have sufficient capital to buy a farm, but who know how to make money farming. The high price of corn belt land is driving out the ambitious tenants who wish to own their own farms. This is the best type of farmer we can get. They have something to work for, and they spend their money at home.

We have prepared blank forms to be used by the Bureau Members in listing their land on different terms to meet the requirements of different farmers.

If you will send for the form that suits you best and fill it out, we will file it in the St. Louis Office and show it to visitors, and send a copy to applicants by mail.

Form 1—Straight rental. Cash or crop.

Form 2—Small down payment on mortgaged farm. Buyer to assume mortgage; seller to take second mortgage for balance.

Form 3—Buyer to make payment of what he can borrow on Federal Farm Loan, (or other loan), and second mortgage for balance.

Form 4—Buyer to borrow what he can on Federal Farm Loan, (or other loan), and pay part as first payment, and part for improvements. Balance of payment by second mortgage.

ENTERTAIN

—With the Aid of Right Lighting

The quality of lighting—like the quality of music—can make or mar enjoyment! It can spoil the dancing party, or add that finishing touch which makes the entertainment a triumph.

Likewise, it can make the neighborly evening call enjoyable, or the reverse. It can make relaxation more restful by soothing quality, or it can so irritate that all rest is out of the question.

Thus lighting in our everyday lives plays a part far greater than it usually gets credit for.

Right lighting in your home is mostly a matter of common sense, but is surely worth having as right lighting in the store, garage or the office—where its value can be definitely reduced to dollars and cents.

Plenty of light, properly shaded: that's the starting point for right lighting in the home. We will gladly help you select your lamps and tell you how to shade them.

We are the exclusive dealers in Edison Mazda lamps.

The Bellevue Anti-Friction Disc Harrow

In point of construction and design as well as in strength, durability and general efficiency in performing its work, the Bellevue Anti-Friction Disc Harrow stands in a class by itself. It is different from other harrows in that the main frame is mounted directly over the disk gangs instead of in front as is the common practice.

But a moments thought is required to appreciate the advantage of this construction—it brings the weight of the operator onto the discs instead of on the horses necks; it keeps the harrow in perfect balance and causes better penetration of the disk blades. It is an all steel construction even to the stub pole. Weight boxes are not necessary but can be supplied when desired. Another very important feature is the hitch which connects not to the pole, but on a special clevis below the end of the stub pole and in direct line with the brace rods or line of draft. This helps to explain why this is the lightest draft harrow made. The inside ends of each disk gang are equipped with Anti-Friction Bumper Heads. The heads are loose on the shafts and revolve under natural friction when the gangs crowd together, thereby further lightening the draft. For further particulars call or phone 281.

EVANGELIST OLIVER REED

Revival meetings begin at the Baptist church Sunday, January 29th.

Evangelist Oliver Reed will do the preaching. Reed is a Southeast Missouri product and one of whom we can all be proud.

I doubt if there is a man of his age in the State who has had a longer and wider experience in evangelistic work.

Reed is one of the strongest, sanest and very best Evangelists in Missouri. He preaches the gospel in a pleasing, straightforward, earnest and powerful manner. He has no "clap trap" or "get 'em quick" methods. There are no sensation tactics.

And is a profound student of the Bible. His chief aim is to reveal a loving message to a dying world. He denounces sins and magnifies the Saviour.

NEW MADRID COUNTY FARM BUREAU NEWS

Farm Bureau Delegates Attend Annual meeting of Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

The New Madrid County Farm Bureau was represented at the annual meeting by President J. K. Robbins, Secretary A. J. Renner, and Judge X. Caverno. The President elected for the year 1922 of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation was C. L. Boland of St. Louis County. The constitution and by-laws of the Federation was amended allowing more representation to the County Farm Bureaus at the annual meetings.

MARY PICKFORD PORTRAYS VERY INTERESTING ROLE

Went "Through the Back Door", Mary Pickford's fourth United Artists production, comes to the Malone Theatre next Monday for a two days' run, admirers of this winsome and wholly refreshing little star will have an opportunity to view her work from many interesting angles.

As an orphan, then a war refugee, also an immigrant and finally a servant—thus does Miss Pickford step from plane to plane in the social scheme until her true identity is at last revealed.

Because her step-father considered her a burden, because her nurse lied about her, and because her own mother didn't recognize her, she suffered many heartaches and disappointments. Despair and discouragement were her constant companions, but in spite of these she triumphed, and when the climax came she made five persons happy for life.

Mary's brother Jack and Alfred E. Green directed "Through the Back Door", which was written by Marion Fairfax from an idea all Mary's own. Charles Rosher was the cameraman.

Growing Wheat Successfully Near the Arctic Circle

The Alaska Experiment Stations of the United States Department of Agriculture have demonstrated that it is possible to raise locally a large part of the wheat needed by those who have settled in the Territory. A recent report from the agronomist in charge of the five Alaska stations states that in the summer of 1921 a crop of 3,500 bushels of spring wheat was produced in the vicinity of the Fairbanks Station. Most of this wheat is being ground into flour in a small mill recently installed at Fairbanks. The quantity available will supply the 1,500 people living at or near Fairbanks. This wheat is the product of a selection made from a small sample of grain received from Siberia in 1914. The grain is hard and the flour of excellent quality.

About 1,000 bushels of wheat were produced in the Matanuska Valley in 1921. One field of wheat at the Matanuska Station yielded 40 bushel per acre. At the Rampart Station the varieties of wheat developed from Siberian stock and most of the barley hybrids and oat selections ripened while their parent plants did not fully mature. Farmers in the Tanana Valley produced 3,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, and nearly 1,000 bushels of barley. Oats and barley, in addition to wheat, are being grown in very considerable quantities every year in the interior valleys, from seed developed at the Rampart and Fairbanks stations.

The aim of Alaskan agriculture is chiefly to increase local food supplies. The main sources of income for Alaska are mining, fishing, and timber. It has long been the belief of those in charge of Alaskan experiment station work that it is entirely possible to grow food in sufficient amount to supply those engaged in all industrial occupations in the Territory.

Farmers in Other Sections Like the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau

A. I. Foard.

I attended a part of Farmers' Week at Columbia last week, where I met farmers from all parts of Missouri and leaders in agricultural movements from many sections of the United States. I was indeed pleased to observe the interest expressed and knowledge shown in the activities of the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau. I had many questions put to me concerning our work and there seemed to be a very general knowledge of our exhibit in Union Station. All of which brings home more forcefully than ever the advertising value of this exhibit and the Southeast Missouri influence radiating from it. I tried to feel out the impressions registered on those who have visited the exhibit and those who have learned of what Southeast Missouri is doing through friends who have visited the exhibit.

The feeling of other Missouri farmers is that the thing Southeast Missouri is doing denotes unusual progress and enterprise. And that desired results are sure to follow such a comprehensive campaign of practical advertising. There is also the sentiment that Southeast Missouri has beaten the other sections of the state to both the idea and actual working out of such a project. A project which any section of the state would be proud to claim as its own, if only its native sons had thought of the idea first.

The Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau is gaining a name and reputation for its section that makes all other communities in the state sit up and take notice. A name which stands for the highest type of loyalty and progressiveness. This feature alone has a value to our section which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. If it could be it would undoubtedly be much more than the cost of maintaining the organization. If farmers and business men in other sections should feel a little chesty over what Southeast Missouri is doing because of their pride in Missouri as a whole, our own people living in Southeast Missouri should not hesitate to swell up a bit.

This feeling and sentiment which I observed during Farmers' Week gave me renewed inspiration and confidence in the work we are doing as I am sure it will do to the readers of this paper.

MRS. GREER FOUND DEAD IN COAL SHED

Mrs. Mary A. Greer, the aged mother of A. J. Greer, who lived alone on Northwest Street, was found dead Tuesday morning in her coal shed, where she had gone to get some coal to replenish her fire.

Death was caused by heart disease and came suddenly, as she was found where she had fallen.

The last time Mrs. Greer was seen by her neighbors was Monday morning and on Tuesday, when the neighbors failed to see any smoke coming from the chimney, decided to investigate the finding of her body at the shed was the result of the investigation.

Mrs. Greer was 69 years of age. She as the mother of A. J. Greer, who with his family ran a grocery store on Prosperity Street, and who has lived in this vicinity for the last 20 years, but is now living in Springfield, Ill.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and the body was laid to rest in the Sikeston Cemetery, Rev. Thos. B. Mather, of the Methodist Church, officiating.

FAIR DIRECTORS ELECTED TUESDAY

The stockholders of the Southeast Missouri District Fair had their annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Tuesday evening. The Secretary had his report ready and submitted to them the financial condition of the Association was in at the present time.

C. E. Dover, cashier of the Citizens Bank was authorized to dispose of certain notes held in order to secure sufficient money to pay all claims against the Association.

The following gentlemen were elected to the directorate for the ensuing year: Ranney Applegate, W. H. Sikes, Jos. L. Matthews, T. A. Wilson, Lee Bowman, Jake Sitze, L. M. Stallecup, Leonard McMullin, and S. P. Hunter of La Forge. From these directors the officers will be selected and announced at a later date.

It was decided to proceed with the arrangements for a fair in September of this year and the public is invited to lend their support in the way of exhibits of farm products, household and kitchen fixings, live stock, and anything else that might go towards making the greatest fair we have ever had.

It is true that the Association owes some of its premiums and the men to whom it is due know just what conditions caused the delay in payments and should wait with patience the arrival of the check, for it will surely come.

In the meantime hold nothing in the way of personal ill will against any of the officers as they have done everything in their power to raise the money to clear the books, but scarcity of money at the banks have made it an uphill task.

This is a Southeast Missouri Fair, and the greatest county fair in the State, so it should be the pride of every individual to do his or her best to make it a big financial success.

ILLINOIS TO BUILD STATE CEMENT PLANT

Springfield, Ill., January 24.—Following the agreement reached in Chicago Saturday by the highway executives of 8 Midwestern States not to buy any more cement for hard roads from the "trust" until prices are reduced to a fair, economic level, Director C. R. Miller of the Illinois Department of Public Works today commenced the execution of plans already perfected for the building of a state cement plant.

Col. Miller said today:

"We have just commenced to fight. We are going to build roads in Illinois, but we are not going to pay exorbitant prices to the cement trust. Gov. Small is just as determined as ever to build 1000 miles of road this year, but he is not going to permit the cement trust to rob the farmers of Illinois with wartime prices when the price of their product is continually dropping, any more than he would last year when the trust cried, 'Build at once regardless of cost.'"

"The work may be delayed some, but it will go ahead. I have had expert engineers at work for some time on plans for a state plant. We are in earnest in this matter. We have $5,000,000 for construction of road material plants and we are going to build. Then in the future we will never be at the mercy of the trust."

Illinois took the lead in the agreement which was reached in Chicago Saturday.

Wisconsin was offered cement by Illinois plants at 7½ cents per barrel less than these same plants would furnish cement to Illinois. But Wisconsin also rejected all bids.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the M. E. Church held an all day meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Louie Hinkle, on Prosperity St.

According to an estimate by the home economic department of the University of Wisconsin, a good wardrobe for a girl student can be purchased for $324.30.

The following from Commerce were here Saturday to attend the funeral of Reese Applegate: Mrs. Tillman Anderson, Miss Virginia Anderson, Mrs. Clara Anderson, Mrs. J. P. Ranney and Mrs. Geo. Campbell.

Lichens are eaten in various parts of the world. In times of famine a species of lichen in Northern Asia serves as food for the Tartar tribes. Due to the fact that Chinese swallows makes their nests of lichen, the Chinese eat the nests, which have great nutritive value.

MINUTES OF MEETING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

One of the most entertaining sessions the Chamber of Commerce has ever held was that of Monday evening, at which time Mr. Roy Woodburn, proprietor of a string of creameries, but living at Poplar Bluff, was here in response to an invitation to place before interested parties the dairying situation as he sees it and has experienced it.

A splendid lot of business men and farmers were present when President Matthews introduced Mr. Woodburn, who hastened to say that he was not a speaker, but when he finished his part of the program, it was known by everyone present that he was a talker who knew what he was talking about and one who was interested in his subject. He had just enough of the Southern drawl to make his talk pleasing to the ear and so much of real facts and experiences to make it pleasing to the mind.

He told those present not to expect too much to start off with, if they did, they would probably be discouraged and quit, but advised them to take the cows they now had, give them better attention in the way of housing and feed, to feed and milk them regular and the animals would respond to this treatment and give them more milk. "Breed for quality and feed for quantity" was his advice, and to use bulls from a milk record strain to cross on to the cows they now own and the first cross would show the increase in milk.

Notes were taken of the talk by Mr. Woodburn which will be given in paragraph as they were spoken:

The Cape Girardeau County Dairy Herd owns the third Guernsey bull in the United States for producing cows with butter fat records.

Butter fat delivered to the receiving station at this time will net from 17c to 18c per pound, leaving the skim milk for calves, pigs and poultry.

To produce milk economically pasture is a necessity, next to pasture comes ensilage. The cow consumes great quantities of roughage such as fodder, hay or ensilage. Alfalfa is the greatest of hays to produce butter fat, followed by pea hay, soy bean and clover. Timothy if fed to milk cows would dry them up.

For the cow to give a good flow of milk in bad weather it is absolutely necessary that she be given a warm and a dry house.

To properly test milk mix the morning and evening milking in a can, stir thoroughly, then dip from as near the center as possible.

Everyone selling butter fat should own a cream separator of some sort, as a good separator will soon pay for itself in gain of butter fat besides saving of time.

The small dairyman loses on delivering milk at 40c per gallon if he counts his time in delivering anything. The cost of broken bottles, bad collections, etc., are done away with selling the butter fat.

Skim milk is worth 82c per cwt. as feed for pigs in comparison to corn at 60c per bushel, in addition the manure is rated at $20 per cow as a fertilizer on the farm.

Man can live longer and keep his efficiency longer on milk than on any one article of diet known. The Holstein cow has more sugar in her skin milk than any other cow. Less cream rises to top on Holstein milk than any other dairy breed because of the small butter fat corpuscles but is held in body of the milk and is extracted by a separator. Jersey and Guernsey milk can be easily skimmed with spoon or ladle because the fat corpuscles are large and rise to the top.

The price paid for butter fat is regulated from Chicago and Woodburn receives a telegram each day setting the price. He pays within 1c of Chicago. Woodburn furnishes cans to ship from local station to creamery at Poplar Bluff. Will sell at cost to dairyman who wish cans.

Tuesday morning Mr. Woodburn made arrangements with Earl Riga to act as agent at this point and the first shipment will be made Saturday of this week. The back room of the Pinnell Store Co. will be the station and for every pound of butter fat delivered there the cash will be paid. This will eventually prove a big paying proposition for our farmers and The Standard is in hopes that they will give this project a thorough trial as small money in a continuous stream will soon grow.

Work called for and returned the same day. Call 127.

Straight talk on Cream Separators by Sikeston Hdwe. Co.

Sikeston, Mo.

BEFORE buying a separator, there are certain things that you ought to know about it.

The De Laval skims clean, delivers cream of uniform thickness, runs easily and requires little or no attention.

It is simple, so that it will not easily get out of order, and it is easy to clean and lasts for a lifetime.

Over 2,500,000 De Laval users will confirm these statements about it. We'll be glad to give you the names of a number of De Laval users right around this town. Some of them formerly used separators of other makes.

You can then ask them why they changed, and what they think of the De Laval.

If you want to profit by other people's experience ask us for a list of De Laval users

Sooner or later you will buy a
DE LAVAL

To every reliable farmer in the Sikeston District who will encourage the efforts of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce in establishing a Cream Station here, by agreeing to deliver cream at least once a week for six months, we will furnish a DeLaval at a special price and easy terms. If you are not satisfied with your profits at the end of the six months we will take the machine off your hands.

FARM COMMITTEE ASKS FOR FAVORS

Washington, Jan. 25.—Recommendation for repeal of the commonly known guaranty clause of the transportation act and return to the State Railroad Commissions of control over State rates, was voted today by a subcommittee on railway transportation of the general transportation committee of the National Agricultural Conference. The vote on the repeal of the guaranty clause was 12 to 5 and the return of the State railway powers 11 to 6.

Recommendation for the construction of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway project was voted by the subcommittee on waterways transportation under the general transportation committee.

Participation in the economic rehabilitation of Europe, extension of credit to foreign buyers through the Federal Reserve System and perfection of the co-operative marketing idea were among the remedies for the existing agricultural depression recommended by speakers before the conference. The speakers were unanimous in the opinion that sound marketing policy was of equal importance as one governing production.

Gov. Parker of Louisiana aroused enthusiasm when he called upon "patriotic Democrats of the South to stand shoulder to shoulder with patriotic Republicans of the North" in the effort to solve the problems before the conference.

J. M. Anderson of the St. Paul (Minn.) Equity Co-operative Exchange asserted that only through co-operation with Europe in her efforts to recover could American economic difficulties be settled.

Gov. Parker proposed as a means of combating the present farm depression the opening of export markets through extension of long-time credits to foreign buyers through the Federal reserve system.

"Have the Federal reserve banks," the Louisiana Governor suggested, "send their own representatives to the capitals of those European nations desiring to purchase our products and unable to pay for them. Look up the standing and character of these purchasers as well as their financial responsibility. Sell them not on very short time, but on six, 12 and 18 months, taking their acceptances, with the indorsements of the local bank and the co-operation of the great banking institutions of each nation."

"Authorize the spinners, manufacturers and dealers to sell their products on equally long time, all drafts, acceptances and notes in payment to be deposited in trust until the claim of the Federal Reserve Bank shall have been paid."

Gov. Parker would the conference that this plan "would afford almost instant relief, would mean the employment of many American ships for carrying these goods, would add to the value of the merchant marine, would put energy and spirit into business, and bring to this country the good will of all of the older nations."

Gov. Parker departed from his prepared address to take notice of rumors which he said had been heard in some quarters that "this is a hand-picked, cut-and-dried performance." He added the hope that there was no foundation whatever in the rumors.

Gov. Parker declared that he believed the delegates had come to solve intelligently and patriotically the problems now confronting agriculture.

Delegates expressed keen interest in the subject of commodity financing. The committee on agricultural credits and insurance is expected to make recommendations for providing farmers with working capital on terms of equality, with financial and available to other industries. Some form of crop insurance also is expected.

A member of the Committee on Agricultural Credit and Insurance

suggested that a plan of financing probably could be worked out to provide for commodity loans running from six months to three years. His proposition would provide for the warehousing, grading and inspection of commodities, indorsement of commodity paper presented by farmers by their local banks and the handling of this paper through the Federal Farm Loan Bank system.

Support of Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals was announced today by the group of editors of agricultural papers attending the conference. A committee consisting of Carl Williams, Oklahoma City, chairman; J. C. Cunningham, Ohio; Herbert Myrick, Massachusetts; Samuel Adams, Illinois; and Clarence Poe, North Carolina, was named to call on Secretary Weeks in regard to the matter.

BUS OWNER ACCUSED OF CHECK FRAUDS

An information for uttering worthless checks was issued today against Carl L. Bess, 28 years old, who operated an auto bus line between St. Louis and Fredericktown, Mo., and who was arrested yesterday at San Antonio, Texas. He is reported to have waived extradition and a detective has been sent for him.

Bess had his local stand at the Marquette Hotel. He had five automobiles, purchased at the Weber Implement Co., 1837 Locust Street, on each of which was a mortgage of $900. He disappeared from St. Louis January 10 and the Weber Company has since been seeking to recover the automobiles. After Bess left, the Weber company reported it had cashed one check for $50 and another for $200 for Bess that were returned by the Bank on which they were drawn, and the Marquette Hotel reported it had cashed checks totaling $425 that were returned by banks.

Two of the Weber automobiles were recovered here recently, and the San Antonio police report two automobiles found in Bess' possession, leaving one car unaccounted for.

Bess was married and lived in an apartment at 3664 Washington boulevard. He also occupied a room at the Marquette Hotel. He was found at San Antonio through a telegram sent his wife by a chauffeur who was employed by Bess in this city, and the chauffeur against whom there is no charge, is being held with Bess.—Post-Dispatch.

HYDE TO ASK DISPOSAL OF $50,000 WAR FUND

Jefferson City, Mo., January 24.—Gov. Hyde departed today for Washington. His chief mission to the national capital, he said, will be to find some way of getting rid of the custody of about $50,000 left from an appropriation made by Congress some eleven years ago to pay Missouri soldiers who served in the Spanish-American War for services at Jefferson Barracks before they were taken into the regular army.

The money voted by Congress first fell into the hands of Gov. Hadley and he disbursed the great bulk of it. A good many of those entitled to participate in the fund could not be found. The balance was placed in a Kansas City bank and the interest utilized for increasing the salary of the Governor's private secretary and other clerical help in the executive office. The same system prevails today.

Gov. Hyde says that he wants the fund disposed of in some satisfactory manner. The State Legislature has no control over it. In Gov. Hyde's opinion, it would be well if Congress should authorize the expenditure of what remains of the fund for a soldier's memorial. This, he said, is only a suggestion.

"I have tried my best to pay off all of these old claims," said the Governor, "and have, in fact, paid out about $3000. I am now satisfied that many of the claims will never be paid. The amount of each unpaid claim is small and the men to whom the money is due scattered long ago and some are no doubt numbered with the dead."

Reuber, Charles Blanton, Jr., Charles Bowman, Ray Hudson, Ted Anderson, Alfred Greer, Jeff Meyer, Reginald Potashnick, Carl Freeman, Louis Scott, Tallie Sams, Russell Miller, Clyde Boutwell, Ernest Harper, Fred Rodman, Miss Laura Ruhl, Miss Elenora McRae, Miss Vera Cunningham, Miss Ulen Fenwick, Miss Margaret Martin, Miss Fern Scott, Miss Jennie Watts, Miss Ruby Evans, Miss Addie Dover, Miss Mary Blanton, Neal Gilbert, Ralph Potashnick and Byron Crain.

LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE MEETING

The Law Enforcement League held its regular meeting at the City Hall Tuesday evening. John O'Hara was unanimously chosen as president. L. D. Baker was selected to notify Mr. O'Hara of the honor conferred. Mr. Baker reported that Mr. O'Hara would accept and give his best efforts toward the work.

Mrs. Maude Stubbs reported that 678 signatures had been secured to support the League with Ward 2 yet to hear from.

The Sheriff of New Madrid County sent word to the League that he would be in Sikeston after the adjournment of circuit court and would confer with officers of the League as how best to keep New Madrid bootleggers from selling their goods to Sikeston customers. The Sheriff says he will work with the League to stop the traffic.

Jackson, Mo., wishes to know of the Sikeston organization and how it is progressing. The Secretary was authorized to write the Jackson citizens.

Mayor White confessed that local officers seemed to be more active since the League had been organized and that they came very near bagging a bootlegger with his wares, but the b. l. beat them over the New Madrid line.

The Standard learned that a new home brew was being made that contained "plenty of hop but no kick." Whether it will prove popular or not remains to be seen.

A special meeting is called for Tuesday evening, January 31, at the City Hall, at which time committees will be appointed and the League will put on her work clothes, lay the brass band on the shelf and quietly lay plans to jail both the seller and the buyer of illegal liquor. Quite considerable embarrassment is likely to occur in some households if their program goes through.

SENTENCE FOR MURDER FOUND TO BE INNOCENT

Jefferson City, Mo., January 24.—Gov. Hyde today paroled Phillip De Paul, who was convicted in Jefferson County in 1914 of murder and sentenced to the Penitentiary for life. The murder was committed for the purpose of robbery.

The parole is based upon the present belief among a number of officials that the wrong man was convicted. Assistant Attorney General Albert Miller conducted the prosecution at that time, when he was Prosecuting Attorney of Jefferson County. Three other Jefferson County lawyers who were interested in the prosecution are satisfied that a mistake was made, and Judge E. M. Dearing, before whom the case was tried, has reached the same conclusion. All are now of the opinion that justice miscarried.

De Paul and a number of other Italians were employed by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at Crystal City. The murdered man, whose name is not given in the papers submitted to the Governor, was a companion of De Paul. He was known to carry all of his money, a considerable sum, with him. He was found with a bullet through his brain and he had been robbed.

The attorneys and officials say that the Italian who testified that he had seen De Paul and the murdered man together near the scene of the crime and a short time before it occurred, left the country and returned to Italy following De Paul's conviction.

The Mayor of Ceraso, Italy, sent a testimonial as to the good name of the family there.

De Paul is paroled to Dr. F. Emory Lyon of Chicago.

It will be a mighty hard matter for any Republican paper or Republican politician to convince R. L. Calvin that taxes have not been raised. Last year, or 1920, his taxes on his farm lands amounted to $650. His taxes for 1921 were $1,437.50. He raised 3500 bushels of corn that he sold to pay his taxes with, but it lacked $25.18 of doing it. Mr. Calvin said if it had not been for his hogs that he could not possibly gotten by, as it was he lost money the same as other farmers.

Judge Ewing Cockrell, son of the late Senator F. M. Cockrell, is spoken of for the United States Senate to succeed Jas. A. Reed. The Standard would like to see this splendid son of his father in the United States Senate, but not this time. Breckinridge Long is entitled to the honor of succeeding Reed, and if Judge Cockrell will sit quietly on the bench until 1926 and go after Senator Spencer's toga, if alive, we'll be for him. Now, the duty of Democrats should be not to kick up a contest for the nomination of any man for any office, but to conserve their energy for the common political enemy at the November election.

Hogs on the St. Louis market Tuesday reached $9.75, which is the highest price in a year. The reason of this price is the scarcity of hogs throughout the corn belt. Other sections are shorter. The farmer should make every effort to attend the sales of brood sows and gilts that is to be held in this section within the next few weeks and purchase just as many as he can raise the money to pay for. C. L. Blanton & Sons Poland China sale at McCord barn in Sikeston comes the 21st of February, followed by the Harper & Wallace Poland China sale at Bertrand, February 22. On the 28th of February, Sikes & Renner will offer 50 head of Durocs to the public. It will take little money to purchase a sow or gilt and here farrow will twice over pay the bill in six months. Make your arrangements to attend all these sales.

The Law and Order League of Sikeston is in favor of enforcement of all laws on the statute books, but after attending their meetings, the only law that they are making a real fight on is the enforcement of the prohibition law. This is a good fight all right and their efforts are going to meet with success, for public opinion, when aroused, must and will be obeyed. At the same time there are other laws that should be agitated that would affect the pocketbook of every tax payer in Sikeston, and that is: to see that the ordinance forbidding automobiles to be parked close to water plugs is enforced. One reason for high insurance rates of Sikeston is because a State adjuster found the plugs in the main part of town hid by cars being parked so that in case of fire, the truck could not get to the plug. The Law Enforcement League should cause the arrest of these violators and the fast driving auto violators just the same as if he was a bootlegger or moonshiner.

President Harding is Responsible.

As the Appeal views it, there were two things in connection with the Newberry matter more scandalous than the purchase of a seat in the American Senate. One was the part President Harding played in influencing weak-kneed party men to vote for Newberry last Thursday. The other was the conduct of Selden P. Spencer, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate Newberry's campaign. Spencer at once became a self-constituted attorney for the defense. By methods that would have been repulsive to a professional physician in a city police court, he ruled out testimony that was unfavorable to his client and otherwise shielded him from a complete revelation of the facts. But neither Spencer nor Newberry himself could suppress all the truth. Both of them were forced to confess that two hundred thousand dollars had been spent in the purchase of the Michigan man's toga. The actual sum, it is thought, was nearer a million. They excused it on the ground that Newberry was ignorant about the wholesale bribery that had been perpetrated. The weakness of their case was further emphasized by the decision to keep Newberry off the witness stand. It evidently was prompted by fear of what would be brought out. The final verdict of the Senate, as viewed by the country, was that purchase of a seat was no violation of the law so long as the beneficiary, as in this case, professed ignorance of the transaction. Newberry, it will be recalled, was indicted by the Federal authorities, convicted by a jury composed entirely of Republicans and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. He was saved on a supreme court technicality to the effect that the law he was charged with violating was unconstitutional. All that saved him from expulsion from the Senate last Thursday was a resolution, part of it written by the President of the United States, which, while safe-guarding him in his crooked election, vigorously condemned the use of much money in a senatorial campaign. One of the worst things in connection with this matter is that future buying of seats is confirmed if the beneficiary pleads ignorance to wholesale bribery special friends or interests perpetrate in his behalf. The very worst feature is that Newberry's crooked vote gave his party a majority of one in the Senate two years ago, enabling it to gain control of all the committees and change the nation's course from Christian ideals to a selfish isolation and an Ishmaelish opposition to former companions in arms.—Paris Appeal.

Unfair Use of State Publication.

Hon. F. M. Norman, former representative has written Jewell Mayes, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, taking him to task for using the State Marketing Bulletin printed and circulated at the expense of the state to convey pernicious political propaganda in an article regarding taxation and seeking to justify the State Board of Equalization in its unjust and unfair valuation of the farm lands of the state.

Here is Mr. Norman's letter: "I have just read your article on the front page of December Marketing Bulletin, headed 'In regard to taxes.' A few more articles like this one and all the farmers in this part of the state will form the opinion that you are running a real Republican newspaper. Before you can make the average farmer swallow this dope you will have to cite him to proof. He is not quite as thick skulled as the average politician. Any common farmer that reads his tax receipt can see that state taxes are increased at least 50 per cent in this part of the state. You will have to change the figures on our tax receipts before you can convince us otherwise.

"I see your article was given out by the Secretary of the Tax Commission. If this is the same politician that was appointed by the Governor some time ago over the protest of the American Legion because he was fined in open court for disloyal utterances during the war, I think the average Missouri farmer, who had to bear the brunt of the war, would hesitate to take the figures put out by such a secretary. Farmers who had boys in the war hesitate to believe figures that are put out by this kind of a man.

"I note the appropriations in 1919-20 for all state purposes were a little more than $18,000,000. These are the two years when the cost of living reached the highest point. Now when labor is cheap and corn 30c a bushel, and all supplies have tumbled nearly 100 per cent, I see the appropriations, by this administration, for the first two years is between thirty-six and forty million dollars. Will you tell us in your next Bulletin how this money is going to be raised with less taxes than we had in 1919-20?" F. M. NORMAN.

Mr. Antwine's Opinion

"It is very interesting to observe the relief movement for farmers", Mr. Antwine said. "Farmers themselves are not busy at this season, and they have time to observe the efforts to save them.

"So we are all looking. We are all hopeful. It is quite true that unless farmers can make a profit none of the rest of us can do so.

"Still our sense of humor is not impaired by the seriousness of the situation. I have been reading what Mr. Harding had to say of co-operation among farmers. He thinks this is of very great importance, and so do many other people. Indeed, some people say that only co-operation can rescue farming from its present plight.

"It is to laugh. We had a wonderful co-operative movement among farmers in North Dakota. They went so far as to do their own banking, carry their own insurance and build their own elevators. Did the country encourage that co-operation among the farmers of North Dakota?

"Certainly not. The country placed in its way every obstacle it could devise. Powerful financial interests opposed its credit. The bonds of North Dakota had to be sold pretty much over the heads of brokers, who feared the wrath of their patrons.

"Does Mr. Harding think this was wrong? Does he think the farmers of North Dakota were on the right track and that it was a mistake to have fought their program of co-operation?

"He did not say so. He only left us to infer that it was an economic faux pas, without going so far as to come out and say it, which would, of course, bring down upon him more of a storm than he might be able to weather.

"I think co-operation will help the farmers, but I do not think we are going to let them co-operate very far without giving them a good stiff fight all along the line. Since our own farmers have fallen upon evil days we have been learning of co-operation among farmers in other countries. It has solved the problem of how to make farming pay in Denmark, and in Russia its value is so proved that the soviets have had to revive it after stamping it out.

"Farmers can co-operate, and there is probably no other way in which they can be helped. Can Mr. Harding assure farmers of protection from predatory interests if they do co-operate?

"I am afraid not. He must share that fear, since he said nothing about it", Mr. Antwine concluded.—Clark McAdams in Post-Dispatch.

Here is a strange thing about the human memory: It can picture to the minds scenes of long ago—the old swimming hole, the big yard and family home the old bay mare, the faithful shepherd dog, the black stick from which father made those horrible pills or other things with which its owner associated in the long ago. When it comes to people, however, its powers fail. No man can recall his father as appearing other than when he last saw him, nor can he throw memory's screen a likeness of the boy with whom he used to chum. Millions of husbands lie about carrying away in their hearts the image of the wife as she was when her red cheeks, dancing eyes and youthful figure first awakened his emotions. It goes good with Friend Wife because she has never experimented to see if such a thing were possible. On the street every day we meet men and women we knew forty years ago, some of them classmates in school from primary department to senior class, but, try as we will, it is impossible to visualize them as they used to be, though it is no trick at all to reproduce in memory the old school building, the playgrounds, the big hickory tree, the sycamores, the oaks and even the red haw saplings about the place. When we were twelve years old our father was only forty, a dozen years younger than we now are, yet we cannot recall that he ever looked different from what he does today, nor can we remember anyone else except as they now appear. Can you?—Paris Appeal.

KEY STOLEN FROM PANTS IN HOME USED TO ROB SHOP

Cape Girardeau, Mo., January 23.—Robbers Sunday night broke into the home of I. R. Ireland at Commerce, twenty miles south of here, while the family slept, looted the house and stole from Ireland's trouser pocket the keys to his general store. Thus equipped they proceeded to the store and robbed it, securing $3000 in merchandise and cash.

Mrs. Ireland lost $1000 in diamonds. A negro has been arrested on suspicion.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CHIEF OF POLICE

We are authorized to announce Charles Clark as a candidate for Chief of Police of Sikeston, subject to the will of the voters at the April election.

Mrs. J. N. Ross, who has been visiting in Little Rock, Ark., returned this week.

Mrs. Geo. W. Arterburn has returned from Cairo, where she underwent an operation. Mrs. Arterburn is improving rapidly.

Sikeston citizens are much pleased with the new fire fighting apparatus and with Dick Swanner, the fireman. Prompt response and the reliable equipment undoubtedly saved the beautiful home of L. M. Stallcup.

The first genuine winter of the season has been with us during the week. The thermometer has registered as low as 8 degrees above zero. Thursday was a white day, snow falling for several hours, which, we hope, will be beneficial to the wheat.

The columns of The Standard are open to all candidates of all political parties at so much per. In the local field it will take $5 in cash to be announced for Mayor, Police Chief and City Collector. For Aldermen, $2.50. All political readers, 10c per line.

A. Ray Smith Smith is in St. Louis buying new goods for the Farmers Dry Goods & Co. Company.

Jess Kimes, of Buckner-Ragsdale Store Co., has been confined to his home this week on account of illness.

Mrs. George Van Lear, mother of Mrs. Emory Matthews, continues to improve and they are hoping to bring her home from the hospital next week.

The Sikeston boys' basketball team will play the Portageville boys at Portageville on Friday, January 27. The Sikeston girls will play the Cape Girardeau girls at Sikeston, Friday, January 27.

Why buy coal when you can get wood just for the cutting. Save your money. I will furnish team or wagon to put you out at Tanner Switch or return free. The draymen of the town will haul the wood you cut cheap. Call me up.—J. H. Galeener.

The U. D. C. meeting that was to be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Sikes last Saturday was postponed on account of the funeral of Reese Applegate, will be held this Saturday at 3:00 o'clock at Mrs. Sikes', with Mrs. Sikes and her mother, Mrs. J. N. Ross, as hostesses.

SKESTON DISTRICT SHOULD FOLLOW

Last week I had an opportunity of driving through one of the prosperous counties of Illinois. In passing many farm houses I found many of the farmers making hot beds. Some were making the manure beds and others were fixing up their hot beds that were to be heated with wood. The beds were generally twelve to fifty feet long and four feet wide with a six inch board on one side and a twelve inch board on the other so that the side of a strip of canvass could be tacked to the edge of the twelve inch board and the other side of the canvass to a thin strip of wood, thereby allowing the canvass to lay over the entire bed during the cold weather, only to be laid back when the sun was warming up. Some of these beds were manure beds filled with manure from the stables and soil placed on top of the manure and others were fire beds, made by digging a trench from one to two feet wide and about fifteen inches deep for a distance of thirty to fifty feet long with old tin laying over the trench and the frame for soil and canvass made over the trench. Then a small furnace would be built at the lower end so that fire could be made and the heat pass up through the trench under the bed, thereby heating up the bed.

Now they are planting lettuce, radishes and many other early garden seeds in these beds and will soon have an abundance of lettuce and radishes for home use and for sale. Why would it not be a good thing for every farmer in the Sikeston district to build a hot bed. He could plant his tomato or cabbage seeds soon as the lettuce or radish crop was over and have large plants to put out early. This will cut the spring grocery bills in half. Why not spend a little time and put a manure hot bed or a fire hot bed on every farm?—J. H. Galeener.

SCOTT COUNTY MEMBERS AT THE STATE CAPITOL

The blue book has the following to say as to Senator Anderson and Representative Malone of Scott County: Tillman W. Anderson (Democrat), Senator from the Twenty-third district, was born Jan. 4, 1883, at Commerce, Mo., where he now resides, being engaged as a farmer and stockman. He was educated in the Commerce public school. He was married April 21, 1914, to Miss Jessie G. Anderson, at Memphis, Tenn. Served as a representative from Scott County in the 50th General Assembly. In the 51st General Assembly he was a member of the Committees on Appropriations; Roads and Highways; Fish and Game; Agriculture; University, Normal Schools, Agricultural College and School of Mines; Township Organization, County Boundaries, Swamp Lands and Ditches and Drains; Centennial Celebration Committee.

E. J. Malone (Republican), Representative from Scott County, and the only Republican ever elected to the Legislature from that county. Was born December 29, 1852, in Marshall County, Tenn. Was educated in the rural schools of that county and at Giles College, Pulaski, Tenn. When a young man, he became a medical student and practiced in his native state, and later, in 1873, moved to the state of Illinois, where he continued to practice and also accepted a position as bookkeeper and accountant for Kirby, Ulen & Company of Pulaski, Ill., who were extensive manufacturers of hard and soft wood lumber, and later he purchased an interest in the business, and in 1875 he married Miss Nora Kirby, a daughter of the senior member of the firm (Mrs. Malone died on the 25th of July, 1889). In 1877 he moved to Missouri and located at what, at that time, was known as Little River, New Madrid county, on the Cairo and Poplar Bluff division of the Iron Mountain Railroad. Forming a partnership with his father-in-law, under the firm name of Kirby & Malone, he erected one of the largest saw milling plants in the state, which is now known as the Himmelberger-Harrison Lumber Co., Morehouse, Mo., they having purchased the same in the 1889. In 1890 he was married to Miss Mamie Ethel Bridges of Carbonale, Ill. During the World War he was Scott County's representative for the war department on claims for allotment and pensions, and enjoyed the distinction of having three sons in the World War, all officers in the same company. Was for many years a member of the board of education, served five or six terms as mayor of his city, resigning in 1919. Is owner of considerable city property and at one time was considered among the largest owners of real estate in that section. Sikeston, Mo., his home city, is reputed the wealthiest town, per capita, in the United States. In the 51st General Assembly he was chairman of the Committee on Public Health and Scientific Institutions and a member of the Committees on Swamp Lands; Public Libraries; Justice of the Peace, and Military Affairs.

Dependable Merchandise

Have you a farm for rent or for sale on a small down payment to a good farmer?

We have a constant stream of inquiries from good farmers who do not have sufficient capital to buy a farm, but who know how to make money farming. The high price of corn belt land is driving out the ambitious tenants who wish to own their own farms. This is the best type of farmer we can get. They have something to work for, and they spend their money at home.

We have prepared blank forms to be used by the Bureau Members in listing their land on different terms to meet the requirements of different farmers.

If you will send for the form that suits you best and fill it out, we will file it in the St. Louis Office and show it to visitors, and send a copy to applicants by mail.

Form 1—Straight rental. Cash or crop.

Form 2—Small down payment on mortgaged farm. Buyer to assume mortgage; seller to take second mortgage for balance.

Form 3—Buyer to make payment of what he can borrow on Federal Farm Loan, (or other loan), and second mortgage for balance.

Form 4—Buyer to borrow what he can on Federal Farm Loan, (or other loan), and pay part as first payment, and part for improvements. Balance of payment by second mortgage.

ENTERTAIN

—With the Aid of Right Lighting

The quality of lighting—like the quality of music—can make or mar enjoyment! It can spoil the dancing party, or add that finishing touch which makes the entertainment a triumph.

Likewise, it can make the neighborly evening call enjoyable, or the reverse. It can make relaxation more restful by soothing quality, or it can so irritate that all rest is out of the question.

Thus lighting in our everyday lives plays a part far greater than it usually gets credit for.

Right lighting in your home is mostly a matter of common sense, but is surely worth having as right lighting in the store, garage or the office—where its value can be definitely reduced to dollars and cents.

Plenty of light, properly shaded: that's the starting point for right lighting in the home. We will gladly help you select your lamps and tell you how to shade them.

We are the exclusive dealers in Edison Mazda lamps.

Do You Need a New Cook Stove?

It's a waste of time and energy to any to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. Our modern kitchen stoves and rangers are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

In point of construction and design as well as in strength, durability and general efficiency in performing its work, the Bellevue Anti-Friction Disc Harrow stands in a class by itself. It is different from other harrows in that the main frame is mounted directly over the disk gangs instead of in front as is the common practice.

But a moments thought is required to appreciate the advantage of this construction—it brings the weight of the operator onto the discs instead of on the horses necks; it keeps the harrow in perfect balance and causes better penetration of the disk blades. It is an all steel construction even to the stub pole. Weight boxes are not necessary but can be supplied when desired. Another very important feature is the hitch which connects not to the pole, but on a special clevis below the end of the stub pole and in direct line with the brace rods or line of draft. This helps to explain why this is the lightest draft harrow made. The inside ends of each disk gang are equipped with Anti-Friction Bumper Heads. The heads are loose on the shafts and revolve under natural friction when the gangs crowd together, thereby further lightening the draft. For further particulars call or phone 281.

EVANGELIST OLIVER REED

Revival meetings begin at the Baptist church Sunday, January 29th. Evangelist Oliver Reed will do the preaching. Reed is a Southeast Missouri product and one of whom we can all be proud.

I doubt if there is a man of his age in the State who has had a longer and wider experience in evangelistic work.

Reed is one of the strongest, sanest and very best Evangelists in Missouri. He preaches the gospel in a pleasing, straightforward, earnest and powerful manner. He has no "clap trap" or "get 'em quick" methods. There are no sensation tactics.

And is a profound student of the Bible. His chief aim is to reveal a loving message to a dying world. He denounces sins and magnifies the Saviour.

NEW MADRID COUNTY FARM BUREAU NEWS

Farm Bureau Delegates Attend Annual meeting of Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

The New Madrid County Farm Bureau was represented at the annual meeting by President J. K. Robbins, Secretary A. J. Renner, and Judge X. Caveno. The President elected for the year 1922 of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation was C. L. Boland of St. Louis County. The constitution and by-laws of the Federation was amended allowing more representation to the County Farm Bureaus at the annual meetings.

MARY PICKFORD PORTRAYS VERY INTERESTING ROLE

Went "Through the Back Door", Mary Pickford's fourth United Artists production, comes to the Malone Theatre next Monday for a two days' run, admirers of this winsome and wholly refreshing little star will have an opportunity to view her work from many interesting angles.

As an orphan, then a war refugee, also an immigrant and finally a servant—thus does Miss Pickford step from plane to plane in the social scheme until her true identity is at last revealed.

Because her step-father considered her a burden, because her nurse lied about her, and because her own mother didn't recognize her, she suffered many heartaches and disappointments. Despair and discouragement were her constant companions, but in spite of these she triumphed, and when the climax came she made five persons happy for life.

Mary's brother Jack and Alfred E. Green directed "Through the Back Door", which was written by Marion Fairfax from an idea all Mary's own. Charles Rosher was the cameraman.

Growing Wheat Successfully Near the Arctic Circle

The Alaska Experiment Stations of the United States Department of Agriculture have demonstrated that it is possible to raise locally a large part of the wheat needed by those who have settled in the Territory. A recent report from the agronomist in charge of the five Alaska stations states that in the summer of 1921 a crop of 3,500 bushels of spring wheat was produced in the vicinity of the Fairbanks Station. Most of this wheat is being ground into flour in a small mill recently installed at Fairbanks. The quantity available will supply the 1,500 people living at or near Fairbanks. This wheat is the product of a selection made from a small sample of grain received from Siberia in 1914. The grain is hard and the flour of excellent quality.

About 1,000 bushels of wheat were produced in the Matanuska Valley in 1921. One field of wheat at the Matanuska Station yielded 40 bushel per acre. At the Rampart Station the varieties of wheat developed from Siberian stock and most of the barley hybrids and oat selections ripened while their parent plants did not fully mature. Farmers in the Tanana Valley produced 3,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, and nearly 1,000 bushels of barley. Oats and barley, in addition to wheat, are being grown in very considerable quantities every year in the interior valleys, from seed developed at the Rampart and Fairbanks stations.

The aim of Alaskan agriculture is chiefly to increase local food supplies. The main sources of income for Alaska are mining, fishing, and timber. It has long been the belief of those in charge of Alaskan experiment station work that it is entirely possible to grow food in sufficient amount to supply those engaged in all industrial occupations in the Territory.

Farmers in Other Sections Like the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau

A. I. Foard.

I attended a part of Farmers' Week at Columbia last week, where I met farmers from all parts of Missouri and leaders in agricultural movements from many sections of the United States. I was indeed pleased to observe the interest expressed and knowledge shown in the activities of the Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau. I had many questions put to me concerning our work and there seemed to be a very general knowledge of our exhibit in Union Station. All of which brings home more forcefully than ever the advertising value of this exhibit and the Southeast Missouri influence radiating from it. I tried to feel out the impressions registered on those who have visited the exhibit and those who have learned of what Southeast Missouri is doing through friends who have visited the exhibit.

The feeling of other Missouri farmers is that the thing Southeast Missouri is doing denotes unusual progress and enterprise. And that desired results are sure to follow such a comprehensive campaign of practical advertising. There is also the sentiment that Southeast Missouri has beaten the other sections of the state to both the idea and actual working out of such a project. A project which any section of the state would be proud to claim as its own, if only its native sons had thought of the idea first.

The Southeast Missouri Agricultural Bureau is gaining a name and reputation for its section that makes all other communities in the state sit up and take notice. A name which stands for the highest type of loyalty and progressiveness. This feature alone has a value to our section which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. If it could be it would undoubtedly be much more than the cost of maintaining the organization. If farmers and business men in other sections should feel a little chesky over what Southeast Missouri is doing because of their pride in Missouri as a whole, our own people living in Southeast Missouri should not hesitate to swell up a bit.

This feeling and sentiment which I observed during Farmers' Week gave me renewed inspiration and confidence in the work we are doing as I am sure it will do to the readers of this paper.

MRS. GREER FOUND DEAD IN COAL SHED

Mrs. Mary A. Greer, the aged mother of A. J. Greer, who lived alone on Northwest Street, was found dead Tuesday morning in her coal shed, where she had gone to get some coal to replenish her fire.

Death was caused by heart disease and came suddenly, as she was found where she had fallen.

The last time Mrs. Greer was seen by her neighbors was Monday morning and on Tuesday, when the neighbors failed to see any smoke coming from the chimney, decided to investigate the finding of her body at the shed was the result of the investigation.

Mrs. Greer was 69 years of age. She as the mother of A. J. Greer, who with his family ran a grocery store on Prosperity Street, and who has lived in this vicinity for the last 20 years, but is now living in Springfield, Ill.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and the body was laid to rest in the Sikeston Cemetery, Rev. Thos. B. Mather, of the Methodist Church, officiating.
